

Manuscript Teacher Self-Evaluation

How was it?

Terrible

Most disengaged, boring, significant tension, confusion

Not Great

Many disengaged, flat, core message clear, space for application

Solid

Many engaged, good energy, core message clear, space for application

Great

Not only Solid but also fun, group connected with text, clear soft-heartedness

Amazing

Whole group engaged, electrifying, prophetic encounter with Word

- When were the “aha” moments? Were they moments of discovery, clarity, or both?
- When did the group laugh?
- To what extent was there freedom to disagree or argue? How well do you handle that?
- How strong was the participants’ ownership of the process, the interpretation, and the application?
- What did you do that aided discovery?
- What did you do that aided clarity?
- When did you feel tension between leading a balance of discovery and clarity?
- How easy or difficult was it to summarize at the end? What helped? What made it harder?
- How was your pacing? When did you move the group on? When did you linger?
- What do you feel satisfied about?
- What do you wish you had done differently?
