

More Resources

Nine Ways to Make Your
Chapter Disability Friendly
<https://goo.gl/8Ktbzs>

Questions or comments?
Email Deb at debbie.abbs@intervarsity.org
Put "Disabilities 3x3" in the subject line.

What is a 3x3?

Three-by-threes are bite size brochures with quick tips
and tools on important ministry topics for campus.

Each contains
3 important facts to know
3 common mistakes to avoid
3 suggested activities to try on campus
Top recommended resources

Find 3x3s online at tiny.cc/3x3guides

Welcoming Students with Disabilities

3 Things to Know

- 1 Students with disabilities need a place to belong and grow in their areas of gifting.

- 2 They have unique obstacles to overcome as they consider joining our chapters and being our co-laborers.

- 3 Percent of U.S. students with a documented disability according to the National Center of Education Statistics:

19% Undergraduate 12% Post Baccalaureate

X Things to Avoid

- 1 Don't assume. If you've met one person with a disability, you've met one person with a disability.

- 2 Watch your language. Defer to what the individual (or group) with the disability prefers.

- 3 Avoid architecture and attitudes that cause exclusion.

3 Things to Try

- 1 Pray and ask God to help you build a close friendship with someone who has a disability.

- 2 Visit your school's disability office to learn about services provided and ways you can be more involved.

- 3 Think through your chapter's various meetings. Are they accessible for all students to meet Jesus? If not, what can be changed?